

Welcome to The RainCatcher Website!

The RainCatcher Inc. is a local design/build company that specializes in using drylands permaculture techniques to create long-term sustainable landscapes and homesites. We are a fully-licensed (NM GB-98 and NM MS-6) and insured company, focusing on:

- permaculture design and implementation
- water harvesting
- water catchment systems
- irrigation
- landscape design and installation
- erosion control
- restoration

- greywater/wastewater re-use systems

The RainCatcher Inc. is a member of the Better Business Bureau, Santa Fe Alliance, Santa Fe Sustainability Guide, American Rainwater Catchment Systems Association, International Erosion Control Association, Santa Fe Watershed's "Adopt the River" program, and supports the living wage in Santa Fe, providing benefits to employees.

The above picture displays permaculture in practice. It is of a mixed perennial and annual food-producing garden, watered by rainwater and a branched-drain greywater system. No supplemental water is needed because all water is harvested on site, re-used from the roof, and re-used from the house. The soil here is very healthy, high in organic matter, and full of life, helping to infiltrate excess water for the plants to use.

Same site 2.5 years before!

Thank you for visiting us! We will be working on the is site over the next few years to bring you a fun, creative, and highly informative website. We are always under construction so please check back soon.